

NVG PhD WORKSHOP

Wednesday November 26th 2014

The value of your work: how to get the interest of the general public.

Venue: Kontakt der Kontinenten, Soesterberg

<http://www.kontaktderkontinenten.nl>

Coffee available from 9.30 am

- 9.50 – 10.00 Welcome and introduction
- 10.00 – 11.00 Gert van Maanen (Editor in Chief Bionieuws at NIBI)
How to sell your science – societal relevance & science communication
- 11.00 – 11.30 Coffee & Tea
- 11.30 – 12.00 Emilie-Julie Bos (Institute for Agricultural and Fisheries Research / UGhent)
Welfare of sows: group housing and lameness
- 12.00 – 12.30 Davide Baldan (Netherlands Institute of Ecology)
In search of the behavioural mechanisms underlying negotiation over parental care
- 12.30 – 13.30 Lunch
- 13.30 – 14.00 Astrid Rox (Biomedical Primate Research Centre)
Threats, treats and cheats: Sexual strategies among females and newly introduced or resident male macaques
- 14.00 – 14.30 Shane Wright (University of Groningen)
The role of visual adaptation in cichlid fish speciation
- 14.30 – 15.00 Tessa Brinker (Wageningen University)
Genomic Solutions for Socially Affected Traits
- 15.00 – 15.30 Coffee & Tea
- 15.30 – 16.00 Eva Kok (Royal Netherlands Institute for Sea Research)
Are migrants motivated by seasonally changing habitat preferences? Pinning down a visual concept of place
- 16.00 – 16.30 Lisanne Stadig (Institute for Agricultural and Fisheries Research)
Outdoor use of broiler chickens
- 16.30 – 17.00 Saeed Shafiei Sabet (Leiden University)
experimental sond exposure effects captive zebrafish foraging performance and swimming behaviour
- 17.00 – 17.30 Central Discussion: Tips and Tops of selling your science